We're Late Again— This Time On Purpose

If you were wondering last Friday after chapel why you didn't get your weekly copy of the GLIMMERGLASS, it's because we planned it that way. We did this to coincide with this week's student body elections and being able to present the different platforms of the United, Insight and Challenge party for your consideration. You will find these on page four of this issue.

Also in this issue we would like to call to your attention the sample ballot for "CHOICE '68" on page two.

Sophomore Class Holds 'Progressive Party'

Friday evening, the 22nd of March, the Sophomore class presented the "Progressive Party." Beginning at 7:30 and lasting until after 11:00 the students traveled from Ludwig Center on to Chalfant Hall and finally to Birchard gymnasium.

The first portion of the program carried us with a flare of fashion into Spring 1968. This mock fashion show featured males in female attire and vice versa. Backed by a pale blue and white colored setting and accented with large pastel flowers. Carcia Knisley narrated the various styles consisting of hillbillies, sports clothes, sleepwear, church dress, the mod look, work clothes, school wear and formal attire. This portion was concluded with an act featuring Ron Fry and his "Heinz Variety" dog, Spam.

The party then progressed to Chalfant Hall when the main feature was the motion picture, "Lillies of the Field."

The party concluded in the gym where various activities such as wrestling, volley ball, ping pong, and swimming were provided.

two ways, 'One is that we have had to do a tremendous amount of switching men to somewhat unfamiliar positions, and the second is that we have sensed an unusual amount of desire and dedication to the task at hand.' The practices are held Monday thru Friday at 3 p.m. either in Birchard Fieldhouse or on the ONC diamond, weather permitting.

The first point to support the uniqueness of the practices is clearly exhibited by some of the men vying for the opening day line-up to be used at Aurora College on April 4. Tiger leftfielder Ken Davis was a high school catcher and centerfielder. Centerfielder Mike DeMint was an infielder in his prep days. Rightfielder Dale Boudreau was a centerfielder at Bradley-Bourbonnais high school.

At the hot corner both candidates have been switched from other positions. Lon Williams was primarily a catcher and Rich Stipp was a second sacker. Shortstop candidate Steve Watson was a standout third baseman at Tipp City, Ohio. Mark Parker, the prominent second base candidate, was a shortstop. Even one of the Tiger's top pitchers, Marlow Garvin, has played a lot of shortstop.

The remaining squad members are native to their present positions and are listed as follows: Larry Jones and Steve Remole, freshmen outfielders; Jerry Polmounter, Dan Soles and Jerry Dockery, freshmen shortstop, second baseman and first baseman, respectively; Brock Swanson, sophomore first sacker; Bob Lightle, junior catcher; and Don Keathley, Howard Nelson and Dennis Jansen, are members with Garvin on the young Tiger pitching staff.

"With the aforementioned changes we have felt we can now present on the baseball diamond the best, all-around Tiger team we can field," stated the Tiger's skipper.

"It is very encouraging to us to have our fine young baseballers come in an hour early every day, to take extra batting practice and then stay 40 minutes after our regular practice and take more batting practice. These batting practices are 100% on the suggestion of the eager players. These actions of desire and dedication will reap results in our initial season. We might just surprise a few unsuspecting, experienced teams."

PARTY PLATFORMS

'United' Proposed Plan

The "United" Party, campaigning for student body elections for the year of 1968-69 consists of the following nominees: Lon Williams, President; Paula Snellenberger, Social Committee Chairman; Peg Ulmet, Secretary and Jon Scott, Treasurer. To fly the "United" way, the following planks of the party platform are proposed:

Lon Williams, presidential nominee of Associated Student Body, proposes:

1. Work close enough to the newly developed campus ministries and social committee to make sure that activities are provided for every weekend.

2. Review the system of election for Student Body officers and the possibility of abolishing the party system.

3. Re-establishment of fireside chats and student-faculty forums.

4. Town meeting where students can question any and all student leaders.

5. Investigate Traffic Control.

6. Cooperate with the Intercollegiate Commission to promote half-time activities at home basketball games and arrange caravans to away games.

7. Establish a campus "Open House" for employers of students and off-campus residents to visit our campus and mingle with students in an informal way.

8. Continue the "Open Door" policy of Student Body offices.

9. Establish an Honor Day for faculty and a Faculty Retreat day.

10. Establish sub-committees of Student Council consisting of non-Student Council members to meet and bring suggestions, rejections and ideas to Student Council.

11. Work on the possibility of an evaluation of chapel services and, if possible, award some token of appreciation for the best service to initiate interest in having better chapel services.

12. Promote the possibilities of having more chapel exchanges with other Christian Colleges.

Paula Snellenberger, Social Committee nominee of Associated Student Body, proposes:

1. Establish try-out system for all-school parties.

2. Involve faculty in the social affairs—use their talents.

3. Work more with W.R.A. and M.R.A. and various clubs to provide social activities which involve the entire campus.

4. Work with the newly established Campus Ministries Chairman to have a full calendar year with every weekend promising a new event.

5. Investigate the procedures used by various colleges to plan social activities. Having worked in A. A. E. S. for two years, I can obtain ideas from our sister schools.

6. Establish a Constitution to clarify the role of the Social Committee.

Peg Ulmet, Secretarial nominee of Associated Student Body, summarizes her proposal:

Along with the regular duties of Secretary of the Associated Student Body, there will be new and varied responsibilities in working with the newly established offices, uniting the social and spiritual on campus. Extra plans proposed for the year are to:

1. Retype the newly amended constitution.

2. Send an agenda to council members and post an agenda in Ludwig Center before the Council meeting takes place.

3. Conduct training sessions concerned with the operation of available office equipment for officers of campus clubs, classes, and organizations.

4. Compiling a handbook of policies for all subsidiary organization sponsors, correct procedures for clearance of dates, rooms, etc., and, the administration policies concerning student organization activities.

5. Re-establish "Table Top News" to provide a means for students to be aware of world, national, and local affairs.

Jon Scott, Treasurer nominee of Associated Student Body, summarizes his proposal:

The biggest responsibilities of the Office of Treasurer in this coming year will be working with the President and Vice President in unifying and coordinating the social and spiritual emphasis on our campus. Because of the change in structure, many changes will have to be brought about in the present allotments and monetary policies of the Student Council.

I would also like to complete the work started on a "Handbook for Club Treasurers."

The responsibilities and work involved in the Office of Treasurer are not small. I know that probably better than anyone, but I can do the job, and, I feel that I am qualified to bring about the changes that are necessary in this coming year.

Thus, the "United" Party proposes a plan—"Fly United."

The Challenge Party

The Challenge goes out to each Olivetian, and that challenge is to the path of excellence. We as Christian young people forfeit our chance to show what we can do. As Challenge Party candidate for President of Associated Students, I want to cooperate with the many fine leaders that we have had in this past year, for unity is a necessary prerequisite for progress, but it is not a substitute for progress.

The need for this challenge is the idea that I would like to communicate to each one during this campaign. That need must be seen by the next President of Associated Students. Imagination and innovative, but responsible new ideas will be needed.

We must achieve this progress academically, socially, and spiritually. What has been done through Spiritual Outreach and the new Campus Ministries Committee shows what concerned leadership can do. We must move forward, and not just consolidate what has been done.

No one person could or should control this move forward, but the leader must set the tone, the atmosphere, for progress. Then, while working with others in positions of responsibility on council and in every area of student government, real advances can be made toward the kind of Olivet that we all want.

A sense of involvement in academic excellence can be achieved by greater recognition of and competition in things academic. Each student can make a unique and significant contribution to the "thinking" power at O.N.C. The Challenge must be heard, or that contribution will never be made.

Socially, a greater involvement in Kankakee and Chicago activities must be made. Students are all too often never informed of very entertaining yet wholesome activities only an hour from campus. The opportunities of hearing and seeing people and groups of all kinds for those with all interests are available, and we cannot but meet and be challenged by the world around us.

It is in our reaction to that world and what we can do as Christians that the Challenge Party calls each and all.

Insight — 1968

We, the INSIGHT party are interested in the fulfillment of the following basic principles of our platform:

1. By emphasizing the open door policy in connection with Student Council business and student body offices, direct and spread the Student Council's desires for involvement and expressing the student body's needs.

2. Integration of present newly elected offices to help stabilize and balance our student government.

3. To emphasize participation in the Spiritual Inreach and Spiritual Outreach functions in order that they may become more efficiently stabilized and functional within the framework of the government of the student body.

4. Increase and stimulate participation in all avenues—spiritual, social, academic and physical—which would prove to be beneficial to the development of each individual's life.

5. To fully emphasize the college's adequate academic and spiritual atmosphere by initiating a program for prospective students which would work in connection with the Intercollegiate Athletic Board.

We uphold these principles substantiating the view of "Education With A Christian Purpose" to ensure your pride in our college.

As the INSIGHT candidate for Student Body President, Marlow Garvin presents the following platform:

1. To follow up and work closely in the integration of the functions of the new office of vice-president in charge of campus ministries to assure its stability during this first year.

2. Close cooperation with the office of vice-president in charge of Spiritual Outreach to concur and establish a good initiation of the newly elected existing office.

3. To establish one chapel a semester for the discussion or explanation of passed or proposed legislation so as to encourage student involvement and understanding of our government.

4. To engage in a more efficient and effective orientation of freshman students so as to insure greater participation and involvement in the student body.

5. To present a challenge to each student in his area of preparation for future endeavors by familiarizing him with former students and their achievements, through which a true measure of success may be gained.

6. Establish a committee through the Student Council to regulate and construct a procedure to be used for informing outside groups and visitors of our campus and its facilities.

7. More access to recreational facilities for all students (including married students) by working closely with the athletic department.

8. Work with the administration towards the possible opening of the entire commons area to provide for a better organized nucleus of activities for student participation.

9. To investigate the possibility of a Student Council exchange with colleges to help promote better understanding and communications between our campuses.

10. Investigation of possible Student Council exchange chapel programs with colleges of similar objectives, such as those which we encounter in the intercollegiate athletic programs.

11. To create interest in the businessmen of the Kankakee area in locating near the campus.

- a. Chamber of Commerce

- b. Service organizations

12. Cooperate with the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men in establishing better canteen and recreational services throughout the dormitories.

As the INSIGHT candidate for Vice-President in Charge of Social Affairs, Joy Crain presents the following platform:

1. Continue all present Social Committee responsibilities that complement the social program.

2. Continue working with MRA and WRA to strengthen and broaden the social program.

3. Cooperate with the vice-presidents of Campus Ministries and Spiritual Outreach to secure a balanced social program.

4. Emphasize direct availability to student body by holding office hours and seeking students' suggestions.

5. Reorganize the Social Committee by:

- a. Emphasizing the use of outside subcommittees to increase incoming ideas and aid.

- b. Obtaining an organized filing system to meet the needs of the committee.

- c. Setting regular social committee meetings.

- d. Choosing a faculty sponsor to represent the Social Committee before the administration.

- e. Appointing a committee for publicity so that the student body will be well informed of social activities.

6. Direct a "State Night" program that will give students from each state a chance to perform their home state pride.

7. Promote class competition in literary and music contests to uncover hidden talent.

8. Organize an effective pep club that will be entirely a project for the freshman class to enable them immediate recognition and responsibility.

9. Present a "This Is Your Life" program to better inform the students of Olivet and its development.

10. Establish well planned orientation programs that will adequately introduce all areas of Olivet to new students.

11. Observe the year's holidays by presenting appropriate programs.

12. Provide direction in the planning of class and club sponsored activities.

13. Strengthen rapport between faculty and students by involving both in such activities as "Faculty Fellowships," parties with faculty entertainment and other student-faculty activities.

14. Search all areas for really new and different ideas.

- a. AAES file of ideas

- b. social leaders of other schools

- c. publications of other schools

As the INSIGHT candidate for Secretary, Bob Beavin presents the following platform:

1. To gain the confidence of the President and other student body officers as a secretary that can be depended upon.

2. To be faithful in notifying members of all meetings, in being present at all meetings and in keeping
